Best Practices 2012-2013

Fostering of Research Culture in the Campus and Dissemination of Research Finding

Goal

The major aim of this practice is to create research environment and dissemination of research findings in the refereed journals by the faculty.

The Context

Lekshmipuram College of Arts and Science have only seven aided undergraduate programme and the remaining courses are under self-finance category. The PG department has started only from 2009-10 onwards. Before that the research culture has been initiated by the College, the faculty have registered themselves for Ph.D. But, as per the NAAC peer team suggestions, it is the need for promoting research culture in the campus and enhances their research publications.

The practice

A series of awareness programmes about funding agencies, their role of promotion of research in the campus is provided to the faculty. A workshop is arranged for, how to prepare research proposal for applying various funding agencies are provided the faculty through the Lekshmi Research Cell. Teachers are motivated to enrol themselves for Doctoral research and those who have completed their research are motivated to apply for guideship for supervising research programmes. PG departments are upgraded into research departments.

Evidence of Success

The faculty secured two funded Minor Research Project, one each in Library Science and Physics. The proposal for a short term Research Project in Tamil from CICT (Central Institute of Classical Tamil), Chennai is submitted. Twenty one teachers have completed their Ph. D qualifications; ten faculty have guideship for supervising research programmes; 32 publications in journals /seminar proceedings at various levels and a publication of Research Journals 'LPC Bulletin on Research'. Majority of the remaining faculty have registered and pursuing their doctoral research programmes at various universities.

Problem Encountered

The major problem encountered is confidence development among the faculty members to apply for various funding agencies. Providing sufficient infrastructure is another major problem, especially in science department. Lack of sufficient laboratory equipments is another major problem.

Notes

Time constraints and lack of infrastructure are major problems for undertaking major research projects.

Continuous Assessment of Students Performance

Goal

To evaluate the performance of the students continuously

The Context

Achievement of the students in their respective discipline is to be assessed in order to determine the future course of action, the progress and alternative method of teaching-learning process. All round development of the learners is the aim of higher education; hence there is a need for evaluating the performance of the students continuously.

The Practice

Entry behaviour of the students is measured initially, usually in the beginning of the year. Their performances are continuously observed by the respective teacher as well as teacher in charge (mentor). The pitfalls, if any, observed by the teacher will be analysed in terms of student's behaviour, solutions found out. The individual assignments, group assignments, class room behaviours are monitored continuously and, if needed, reported to their parents. Re-examination, re-assignments, remedial teachings are provided to the students based on their specific weakness. Remedial instruction and teaching is also provided. Individual care has been provided and counselling is also provided to the needed students. Unit wise test is conducted to study their achievements besides the internal assessment. In internal assessment, the average of best in two out of three will be taken into consideration. Thus, the evaluation is a continuous one.

Evidence of Success

Students' achievements in University examination are better than previous examinations and there is a cordial relationship between the teacher and the taught.

Problem Encountered

Identification of individual potentialities and weaknesses objectively pose a great challenge to the teachers. Pinpointing their short comings based on their marks will be the sole criteria in many times. The success depends on the observing capacity of the teachers in assessing their progress.

Notes

Dividing the students into different categories based on their achievement score in the class room for further instruction creates complexion.
